OVERVIEW

Corinna is a native Washingtonian and a graduate of the University of Washington where she earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Psychology while minoring in Law, Societies & Justice.

After undergraduate school, Corinna worked for a private family law firm for two years where she gained experience working with clients in crisis. This experience prompted her to seek a law degree, earning her Juris Doctor from Gonzaga University School of Law with honors. During law school, she worked as a legal intern for the Council of State Governments Justice Center where she collaborated with the judiciary and legislature of several states to implement effective criminal policies. She also worked as an intern for the Seattle City Attorneys where she gained valuable court experience while also learning how to effectively research and respond to legal questions related to infractions.

Corinna's first post-law school job entailed working as a law clerk for the Chief Judge of the Maui Second Circuit in Wailuku. Returning to Washington, Corinna started working as a deputy Prosecuting Attorney for Clark County Washington where she gained experience as a litigator and trial attorney.
